Performance Summary

The Blue Point model portfolio, which is applied to separately managed accounts, returned 7.48% net of fees during the second quarter. The Total Return of the S&P 500, which includes dividends, was 3.43% during the second quarter. Blue Point outperformed the benchmark by 4.05% during the second quarter. Uncertainty associated with the trade tariffs negatively impacted returns, along with sustained weakness in financials and energy investments. Media and healthcare contributed to returns.

Graph footnote: Total Return (TR), includes the reinvestment of dividends.

Disclosures: Performance of the separate accounts can differ substantially from the performance of Blue Point's model portfolio due to timing of entry, whether account is taxable or non-taxable, and the timing of withdrawals. The standard investment adviser fee schedule is 1.0% on the first $3 million, 0.85% on the next $7 million, 0.75% thereafter. There is no stated account minimum, but the relationship needs to be mutually beneficial. The investment adviser fees are negotiable and may be waived. Market Outlook ➤ Inflation Spike & Investment – U.S. economic policies are intentionally geared towards running the economy hot. A tight job market is being brought to a slow boil. A broad wage inflation spike is expected. U.S. companies will be forced to deviate from the status quo and make investments that enhance productivity. An inflation spike will negatively impact the valuation of fixed income and high-dividend stocks.

➤ Trade Frictions – We are in the corporate advocate phase of trade frictions. While both China and the U.S. need one another, getting China to give up its developing nation trade practices in favor of developed nation trade practices is not going to be easy.

➤ Rewriting the Economy – Technology and regulatory relief are rewriting the operating rules of the economy. The scalability of technology allows increasing market dominance with little incremental cost. Winner-take-all outcomes are more common.

➤ On the Back Foot – China and Europe are increasingly on their back foot. China's growth is slowing as tighter credit policies and trade frictions come to bear. Europe is challenged by division and a lack of reform.

A Global Perspective

Blue Point Investment Management offers equity-oriented growth with a global perspective. The investment discipline seeks Growth at a Reasonable Price. Each client account is managed separately.

The Growth At a Reasonable Price (GARP) investment strategy is a blend of active growth and value investing. As a rule, value investors focus on the price of the security, the numerator of the P/E ratio, while growth investors focus on earnings offered by the security, the denominator of the P/E ratio. GARP represents a blended approach and is often referred to as a market-oriented investment strategy.

Through macro-economic research sustainable long-term trends are identified. Then fundamental research is used to identify the best companies that stand to benefit from favorable trends. Investments are geared towards long-term value creation while preserving capital.

Blue Point seeks equity-oriented growth while actively managing the downside risk. Under normal circumstances, Blue Point invests at least 60% of its net assets in domestic U.S. securities. This global approach offers significant investment opportunities here and abroad. In times of market crisis, adjustments to portfolio holdings will be made that best serve the preservation of capital while seizing investment opportunities. Cash is used as an asset class in portfolio construction.

Each separately managed account stays in the client's name providing complete transparency. Blue Point receives no commission or compensation that would create a conflict of interest. To further ensure the alignment of interests, Blue Point's portfolio manager invests in the same Blue Point model portfolio as clients.
